JOSIE EMILY LeBARON

That "death loves a shining mark" was sadly verified in the going out and up of the sweet life of Josie Emily LeBaron, whom everybody in Arlington knew only to love. Miss LeBaron was a young lady who made friends wherever she went. Of a gentle, loving nature she drew about her all that was best. She came in closest touch with the better side of humanity. She was always the happier when she made others happy. It was an invariable delight to her whenever she could render aid to one needing help. Hers was the encouraging work. Her presence always brought the sunshine.
Some years ago when spending the summer in Vermont for her health there came word to her of a poor woman in the vicinity of her temporary residence who was ill of consumption.
Miss LeBaron at once sought her out, though a stranger, administered to her comfort, and after returning to her Arlington home sent the dying woman many a sweet message and many a delicacy. This incident is mentioned as characteristic of Miss LeBaron's life of giving and doing. She exemplified the Christian virtues in the spirit of an unselfish love. In her busy, active life she displayed that rare executive ability which recognized at first sight the work to be done, and then did it. She well understood how to organize and manage forces so as to render them effective, and in such a way did she do this that she made friends of all those over whom she had supervision as a telephone operator and manager. For seven years she had charge of the central telephone office in Arlington, where by her pleasant manner, and her accommodating methods in business she made a host of friends. When promoted to the more responsible position of superintendent of the central office of Cambridge she readily gained the good will and loving respect of the 25 young women under her management; and besides she made friends in Cambridge as she had done in Arlington.

All along her too short way there are those who lovingly testify to her many excellencies. When her death occurred at her home Friday, June 17, all felt they had lost a dear friend, so closely had her young life come in touch with those whom she knew.
The wreath of choicest flowers that covered the casket on the day of the funeral of the deceased was a sweet testimonial to the memory of the departed. From the immediate family there was a large pillow of flowers.
From Arlington there came a large standing wreath from Hose 3 fire department; a bouquet, Arlington fire department; a beautiful wreath, Mr. and Mrs. Edward S. Farmer; a large bouquet, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Crosby; Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Turner a mound of flowers; a bank of flowers. Chief of Police Harriman; choice floral pieces from Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Hooley and Charles Wood; a wreath of white roses, Arlington central telephone station; Miss LeBaron's Sunday school class, Pleasant Street Congregational church, a delicate variety of the choicest flowers; a basket of pinks, George P. Winn and daughter; a pillow, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs.
George W. Storer, a floral piece of unique design; bunch of pinks, Weth-erbee brothers. There were many other floral offerings from the following Arlington friends: Mrs. Grace Hartwell Rood, Miss Emily Hartwell, Miss Maud Hartwell, Miss Mabel Hartwell, George Winn, the Gaddis family, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Junkins, H. A.
Perham, Mr. and Mrs. Byron Howard and family, Mr. and Mrs. Warren A.
Pierce and family, Major Bacon, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Griffiths, Dr. Roy B.
Young, James O. Holt and employees and from other Arlington friends. There came from friends and employees at the headquarters of the Bell Telephone company, Boston, a large floral bell, and a large standing wreath from the construction department of the telephone company; a mound of flowers from Mrs. Edward F. Atkins, Belmont; profusion of flowers from the Cambridge telephone office; floral remembrances from the Lexington telephone office; a variety of flowers from Mr. and Mrs. Grush and family, Dorchester, and then there were floral tokens from Mrs. William H. Winn, Burlington; Mr. and Mrs. George P.
Russell, Woburn, Mr. and Mrs. Henry LeBaron, Woburn, Mr. and Mrs. John LeBaron, Everett; Mr. and Mrs. Harvey LeBaron, Boston; Mr. and Mrs.
Frank Peabody, Lexington; Mr. and Mrs. Hittinger, Belmont, and M. Galvin, Boston Elevated railroad. The funeral of the deceased took place Monday afternoon at the residence of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Le-Baron. The services were conducted by Rev. S. C. Bushnell of the Pleasant Street Congregational church. The pallbearers were the two brothers of the deceased, Reuben W. LeBaron and Frank H. LeBaron, and Arthur L.
Bacon and Harry Grush. Interment was in Mt. Pleasant cemetery. The sympathy of this entire community goes out to Mr. and Mrs. LeBaron and family in this hour of their deep bereavement.

Another Change at Waverley Postoffice.

Not so many years ago the Waverley postoffice was in charge of Serenus Gates, recently deceased, and consisted of a stick with grooves to hold the letters. This crude office was also Mr.
Gates' shop as the village cobbler, station agent, and crossing tender.

The office later went to Herbert H.
Russell, who devoted a portion of his grocery store as an office.

John R. Mackessey was the next incumbent, who moved the office to its present quarters.

About two years ago Mr. Russell again was appointed postmaster, he retaining the office at the same stand as his predecessors.

Tuesday, July 1, as a result of a large petition, the office was advanced to a second-class office, with privilege of carriers if demanded. This present arrangement yields the postmaster an annual salary of $2900, the assistant $1000, with light, heat and rent paid.

WITCHCRAFT IN HAWAII

IMMENSE BUSINESS DONE BY KAHUNAS AMONG NATIVES.

Took After Errant Spirits—Queer Beliefs of Hawaiians—Exorcisms That Look Like Murders—Traps Set For Spooks—Killing a Mischievous Spirit.

Witchcraft, or kahunaism, as it is known in the Hawaiian Islands, is far from being obliterated since annexation. Though the attempt of the last Home Rule Legislature to legalize the practice of kahunas failed, that failure has not diminished the business done by the witches among the natives.

Even at this late day in Honolulu cases of witchcraft are sometimes reported to the authorities by newcomers to whom the black art has very much the appearance of crime. Not long ago the police were notified of a case of murder at Waikiki, which upon investigation turned out to be nothing more than the act of a highly respected kahuna. He had been driving off some evil spirits by burying the patient in the sands of the beach, and the stranger who witnessed the performance thought murder had been committed, and the murderer was trying to hide the evidences of his crime.

The Hawaiian is superstitious and a firm believer in witchcraft. He believes that the witch or kahuna has the power to relieve him from the attacks of the spirits.

In common with many other races the native believes that the body has two spirits. While the body sleeps one of the spirits leaves it in charge of its fellow and wanders at large, often causing considerable mischief which the kahuna is called in to remedy. The Hawaiian still believes that this habit which spirits have of wandering around in the dark may lead to his injury. The kahuna poi aubane, as he is called, is looked to for relief, for the natives have firm belief in his power to destroy and capture spirits. The kahuna is paid for his work and the Hawaiians saw no reason why his profession was not entitled to legalization.

The kahuna makes witchcraft his business and follows out a carefully prepared plan in his chase after spirits. He is supposed to have the power to summon at will, by means of his black art, spiritual messengers to do his bidding. These messengers are spirits of men and women, who during life excelled in the arts of the kahuna. Among those commonly employed are Kuamu and Kapo, who were women, and Kaonohokala, Kumukahi and Palamos, who were men.

The services of these spiritual messengers may always be secured, but some kahunas are believed to have special messengers, owing allegiance only to them. Such a special emissary of the spirits is known as a unihipi.

Kahunas generally operate early in the evening, when people have just gone to sleep, and their spirits have not had time to wander far from their homes. He sits alone in his house with the client who wishes his spirit taken care of.

Tasting of the awa he pours out a libation to the familiar spirits that are to act as his messengers, and then mutters the dread prayer which he compels their attendance. These messengers are sent out to bring to the house the spirit suspected of evil practices and some of its friends, the latter being invited to disarm suspicion.

Three coconut cups are filled with awa and placed side by side in the open doorway of the house, behind which the kahuna is seated, his client being hidden from view in a corner. As the spiritual messengers return, bringing with them spirits from different homes, the kahuna describes the members of the party until finally his description fits the spirit that his client is seeking to have destroyed.

Then the old awa drinkers incline their heads to imbibe their favorite beverage, and finally the victim follows their example and bows his head to the cup, in drinking. Quick as a flash the kahuna seizes him in his right hand and crushes him between his hands. A faint squeak is heard, and the Hawaiian believes the troublesome spirit to be dead.

The kahuna opens his hand and discovers a drop of blood, which is mixed with potatoes or poi and swallowed by the kahuna and his client. The next day the native whose spirit was so destroyed is told of the fact by the kahuna.

Another method of dealing with spirits as practiced by the kahuna is to imprison them, when caught, in a drinking gourd to await a ransom from the owner.

The natives believe also that the spirit sometimes in a fainting fit suddenly leaves the body, and the services of the kahuna are then enlisted to force the reluctant spirit to re-enter its home. In such cases the kahuna after capturing the spirit, raises the nail of the large toe to force the spirit in.

This accomplished, the nail must be firmly held down while a vigorous lomilomi (rubbing of toe and foot) forces the spirit back to the ankle joint. The joints of the knee and thigh also are supposed to offer resistance to the entrance of the spirit, and finally when it arrives at the chest, respiration is renewed, and the life of the fainting body is restored.

At death the spirit is supposed to pass out of the body through the nostrils or open mouth. The burial place of the body is usually believed to be the abode of the spirit, but spirits are continually wandering around frightening and pestering people, particularly relatives of the dead.

To prevent this the natives seal up the spirit with the body of a deceased relative by placing large stones over the grave and filling the spaces with plaster. Covering the coffin with thorns and refuse matter is also resorted to, but in spite of all precautions the ghosts manage to escape sometimes and become a source of annoyance and danger.

The Hawaiians believe that they will trip up people in the dark, pinch and pull their legs in bed, throw stones, scare horses, knock on houses, mutter and chirp (muki is the Hawaiian expression) and give warnings of approaching death. Whatever happens without apparent and visible cause is attributed to spirits or ghosts.

Hawaiians take every precaution to keep away spirits. For this purpose many of the native houses are surrounded by a hedge of the ti plant, which, it is believed, is a safeguard against spirits.

Not long ago a wealthy Hawaiian built a handsome and expensive frame dwelling house, but he was warned by the kahuna not to occupy it on pain of death until the flowers should appear on a hedge of ti plants with which he was ordered to surround the house. This mandate he obeyed and for months was compelled to live in a little old hut, while the new house stood empty, waiting for the hedge to flower.

An interesting case of witchcraft practiced a few months ago has come to light. A native named Keola, employed by W. D. Alexander, felt the grasp of a hand upon his throat one night and after a desperate struggle secured his release. He recognized the witch as the wife of Pele, who lived near by, and who had considerable reputation as a kahuna.

It was admitted that the body of the woman was asleep at the time, but the native went to Pele and boldly accused the wahina of attempting his life. The kahuna, husband of the accused woman, was called upon to try the case. Using a pack of cards, he pronounced his wife guilty. She, seeing she had a fair trial, accepted the verdict in silence. It therefore remained for the kahuna to kill the spirit and thus prevent further injury.

The kahuna prescribed the remedy, which consisted of three panoo fish, freshly taken from the sea, five joints of red sugar cane of the variety called ko uwala, and some flowers of the hola or aubuhu shrub. She was made to eat the sugar cane, together with the aubuhu flowers, after which she took the fish and approaching the junction of two roads without looking back, she dropped the fish behind her and passed on, leaving them for the kahuna to recover. Fish are considered a great delicacy and eaten raw by the natives. Peace was thus restored and the relations of the chief actors again became friendly.

Coloring of Precious Stones.

Modern chemistry has produced such changes in the colorings of many of our stones and minerals that it is possible to imitate many of them and improve upon nearly all. Any colored onyx can be obtained by simple chemical processes, and the common dull colors of this stone can be converted into brilliant hues, thus greatly increasing the value. Not only can the whole stone be made to change its color, but sections and lines of it can be made to assume a red, black, yellow or white color, while the rest is pure white or black. Agates are easily converted into an onyx-like substance and character, which lapidaries use for cameos and intaglios. Altogether, our chemical treatment of some of the abundant stones and minerals has not only widened and developed the resources of the country, but it has made it possible for the poor to possess good imitations of jewels which at one time were considered almost priceless.—Scientific American.

A Novel Decoration.

Over the office desk of a young Philadelphian who has recently written a novel there is a unique decoration. It is about six feet square, and it is composed of about 200 of those printed slips that editors inclose with the MSS, which they reject. All the slips, the novelist says proudly, are bona fide. All came to him direct.

They are the politest things in the world. Not one of them says that the repudiated story, a poem, or whatever it may have been, was badly done or in any way unworthy. All imply that for some unknown, but really rather flattering, reason the MSS. was returned.

"Are these all you have?" a visitor asked the other day, pointing to the slips.

"Oh, dear no," said the novelist. "I think I must have as many again at home."—Philadelphia Record.

Precious Stones.

The various colored quartz crystals produce many fine specimens of stones which are used in the jewelry trade. Thus the amethyst is a transparent purple variety of quartz. Some varieties are so plentiful that they have lost much of their ancient value. The finest deep purple gems naturally command nearly as much attention as ever, and when cut properly they sell for good prices. Small but very fine amethysts are now found in parts of Pennsylvania, Maine and North Carolina. These stones are eagerly sought after, and occasionally a large one is found which is valued nearly as much as those imported from the Orient.—Scientific American.

Origin of "Stogie."

The stogie owes its name to a corruption of bonestag, the name given wagons which were used in traveling in the first half of the nineteenth century.—Chicago Tribune.

Glorious Hog Hunt.

The people of Warren indulged in an unusual Sunday diversion by trying to corral 200 pigs that were roaming at will around the town when the residents awoke. The porkers were in train AB 4, that was wrecked Sunday morning near Warren, and were released by the breaking of the cars.
All night long the pigs roamed around the streets of the town finding excellent rooting on the well-kept lawns and beds of choice flowers.
When the owners of the lawns and flower beds looked on the destruction they went to work in earnest to round up the destroyers. Armed with everything from a clothes pole to a pitchfork the wild hog hunt began. Haskell Underwood won the honors of the chase by capturing 132 of the animals. The railroad company sent a number of men to the town to help catch the pigs. About 6 o'clock they were all captured.

NOTES FROM WASHINGTON.
(Special Correspondence.)

Navy Needs Men—The recruiting office of the bureau of navigation, which is about the most enterprising branch of the government and could show a thing or two to the old-time British recruiting sergeants who used to drop the queen's shilling in a victim's glass of beer, has decided to take advantage of the coal strike to get men for the navy. Orders have been given Lieut. J. F. Ryan and a surgeon to make a trip through the Pennsylvania strike regions for the purpose of inducing striking miners to enlist as landsmen. The idea is that the miners will be glad of the opportunity to get places where victuals are regular and plenty, although the pay is small. The navy is in need of men.
Every effort has been made to secure them, but the authorized quota is still unfilled and many ships have short complements. After scouring the coast ports for men who had followed the sea the navy recruiting officers turned to the inland waters of North Carolina and succeeded in getting a considerable number of fishermen. Then they scoured the Mississippi river and the Great Lakes with fair success, but there was still a lack of the number required.

A New White House—A new "White House" will be established temporarily for the use of the president while the present official residence is undergoing repairs. The house at 22 Jackson place, on the west side of Lafayette park has been leased and such furniture as is necessary to meet the wants of the president during the summer will be moved into the temporary residence during the absence of Mr.
Roosevelt in Massachusetts and Connecticut this week. The house at 22 Jackson place is one of several red brick structures built closely together on the west side of the park, a little more than a stone's throw from the White House, which is now a mecca for souvenir hunters who cluster around the front door, hold up the wheelbarrow men and delve into the rubbish for nails, bits of plaster, laths or any material that once formed a part of the historic old mansion. The prizes most sought after are the platter of paris ornamentations from the decorations in the east room. When a barrow comes out of the doorway laden with some of the gilt ornamentations a contest ensues among the relic hunters which is only subdued by police interference.

His Fame Was Groggy—Pay Director
Caspar Schenck, U. S. N., retired, who died at the Naval Home in Philadelphia, on Saturday, was one of the best known officers of the service. He had a fun of yarns that made him popular among his companions on shipboard or ashore. Mr. Schenck was the author of the celebrated naval ditty, "Farewell to Grog," which The Sun printed at the time of his retirement in 1897. In the days before the civil war a grog ration was served daily to every enlisted man, and when the boatswain "piped all hands to splice the main brace," there was always an enthusiastic response. Through the efforts of Admiral Foote the grog ration was abolished and the men's pay increased by its cost. The night before the law prohibiting the use of liquor on shipboard went into effect Mr. Schenck and the other officers of his vessel held appropriate services and under the influence of the occasion he wrote his best known poem, the refrain of which was:
They raised our pay five cents a day
But stopped our grog forever.

Mr. Schenck often told of the freedom with which liquor was drunk on board naval vessels in those days.
Every officer's mess had a small keg which was filled with whiskey. The faucet could not be turned without first being unlocked with a key. Every officer had a key, and when he wanted a drink he helped himself from the faucet.

No Use for Deserters—President Roosevelt has sent a message to the house of representatives vetoing the house bill to remove a charge of desertion against Ephraim H. Gallion, as he was never mustered into the United States service, and was refused pay for his service period. The message says: "While the records of the Eleventh Tennessee Cavalry are incomplete, and it is impossible to ascertain from them whether Gallion was formally mustered into service as a member of it or not, they show conclusively that he was actually made a soldier in this regiment by being placed on duty in it, and by being clothed and paid by the United States as a soldier. In an affidavit submitted by Gallion it is declared that he never received any moneys during his service as a member of the Eleventh Tennessee Cavalry. A pay roll on file shows that on May 13, 1864, at Camp Chase, Ohio, Gallion received from a United States paymaster $105.75, being his pay at the rate of $13 a month for eight months and four days from the date of his enlistment."

STRONG PULSE BEATS.

Cases in Which They Are Perceptible to the Eye.

"It is not such an uncommon thing," said a physician, "to find a person whose pulse beats can be plainly seen, and yet I suppose there are but few outside of the profession who realize the fact. In most persons the beat of the pulse cannot be perceived, but the mere fact that the beating is perceptible does not mean that the pulse is other than normal. I have come across a number of cases where the throbbing of the wrist could be plainly seen, and yet the persons rarely gave evidence of abnormality in temperature.
They were rarely feverish, and were in good physical condition generally.
Pulses of this kind, from this view, which is based upon actual observations of cases, do not indicate anything more than an abnormal physical condition in the formation of the wrist veins.

"I have met with one case which was possibly a little extraordinary, in that it was plainer and much more distinct than any I had ever seen before. It could almost be heard. The artery would rise to a point almost as large as the ball of the little finger of a child, and would change from the white of the skin to a blood purple with each beat of the pulse. I found it easy to count the pulse beats without touching the patient's wrist. I could see plainly enough to keep the record, and, in order not to err in my calculation, I tested it in several ways and found it was correct and that there was no mistake in my counting with the naked eye."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

What About Your School Houses?

You may not this season be able to build a new one, or make the radical changes in the old one that you had in contemplation, but there is a school district in the United States that cannot afford to tint with Alabastine the interior of their buildings, thus making them more attractive, getting colors made with special reference to their effects on the eyes of the pupils, getting a sanitary and rock base cement coating that will not hazard disease germs.

The closely crowded school rooms need all the safeguards to the health of the pupil that intelligent officials can surround them with,
and all sanitarians unite in saying that Alabastine is the only proper material to be used on such walls.

Most men are willing to take things as able remedy, Peru-na. I was a complete wreck. Had palpitation of the heart, cold hands and feet, female weakness, no appetite, trembling, sinking feeling nearly all the time. You said I was suffering with systemic catarrh, and I believe that I received your help in the nick of time. I followed your directions carefully, and can say today that I am well again. I cannot thank you enough for my cure."

Peru-na cures catarrh wherever located.
Peru-na is not a guess nor an experiment—it is an absolute scientific certainty. Peru-na has no substitutes—no rivals. Insist upon having Peru-na.

A free book written by Dr. Hartman, on the subject of catarrh in its different phases and stages, will be sent free to any address by The Peru-na Medicine Co., Columbus, Ohio.

Catarrh is a systemic disease curable only by systemic treatment. A remedy that cures catarrh must aim directly at the depressed nerve centres. This is what Peru-na does.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peru-na, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, O.

Dr. Llewellyn Jordan.
DR. LLEWELLYN JORDAN, Medical Examiner of the U. S. Treasury Department, graduate of Columbia College, and who served three years at West Point, has the following to say of Peru-na:

"Allow me to express my gratitude to you for the benefit derived from your wonderful remedy. One short month has brought forth a vast change, and I now consider myself a well man after months of suffering. Fellow sufferers, Peru-na will cure you."

Peru-na immediately invigorates the nerve-centres which give vitality to the mucous membranes. Then catarrh disappears. Then catarrh is permanently cured.

THAT "FINAL RECKONING."

That final reckoning of which we read, and which is not likely to be adjourned or put over because the individual in question hasn't his case prepared, will get at the exact size of the most egotistical and self-conceited man who ever walked the earth. In that court no objections will be favorably heard. From that tribunal there can be no appeal. It would be intensely interesting could one listen to the plea of others as they present their case, saying, "Lord, Lord, we have done this, that and the other, and so please let us in." We'll venture the merchant in that supreme law of balancing the books will not be likely to say, "Lord, we carried on our business without any sort of reference to the good of those in our department of trade. We have at times sold below cost that we might push our brethren to the wall. We have not advertised, thinking thereby to get the last dollar we could lay our hands upon without paying out a penny for the same." It will not count in that hour, that one "went and dugged in the earth and hid his Lord's money." And then, in that summing up of all things it is barely possible that some stray editor will have the cheek to say to his Lord, "I ran a paper down on the earth for years and years, and during all that time I recognized no brother of the guild in my locality, but kept right along about my business acknowledging no competitor, so please let me in, for I am sure I can be of substantial aid to you in running affairs in the New Jerusalem." But in that last day this self-inflating business will have no show. Each man will be sized up for just what he's worth—no more and no less. And we are positively sure that we know some men who now fondly believe they own the earth that will then find themselves rattling around in the smallest possible corner.

"SEVENTY-FIVE PERCENT."

How much does 75 percent really mean in the schools? Indeed, how much does an approximate 100 percent mean as adjudged by the school authorities? In order that any scholastic rank reduced to an exact percentage shall mean what it is supposed to mean, the authorities giving the percentage must necessarily in and of themselves individually, represent a hundred percent. Who is competent to judge of mind and its attainments? Who can understand the mental discipline in simply trying, although the objective result is not reached? The difficulty with this ranking system is that it has to do only with what is seen and heard, while it does not take into account the mental processes had in the attempt to achieve material and tangible results. It must be a satisfaction to all honest, earnest pupils in the public schools that no rank in scholarship, however low, as given by teachers and school officials can keep the persistent boy and girl at the bottom of the ladder while no 100 percent estimate of the school authorities can keep the boy and girl at the top of the ladder. The truth is the great big active outside world where all have an equal chance gives the lie to this whole ranking system in the public schools, and in our higher institutions of learning. It very rarely happens that the leader of his class in college proves himself first in the work of life. The dean of the Cincinnati (Ohio) law school, and a recognized authority upon law didn't come within sight of the first third of his class in college, but all the same he has been making "phibetas" from the day he got from under the ranking pencil of the learned faculty. A distinguished surrogate of New York county in the Empire state, who had during his life time charge of cases involving millions of dollars, was quite a little distance from the leadership of his class in college, while the hundred percent young man who led his class is a lawyer in one of the western states with only a local reputation. All of our New England colleges without a single exception must bear testimony to the fact that the leading men in college as estimated by the college faculty do not as a rule

VACCINATION NOTICE.
The attention of the citizens of Arlington is called to the fact that small-pox is now prevalent in the neighboring cities of Cambridge and Somerville. All persons who have not been vaccinated should give the matter their immediate attention. With the return of cold weather it is feared that an increase in the number of cases may occur.

By an early and prompt attention to this request, much suffering may be avoided.

Board of Survey.
A petition has been received from Wm. Millett for the approval of plans as to the contemplated laying out or locating and constructing the streets or ways in the town of Arlington, designated at Summer street, Lansdowne road, Rockland avenue and Millett street.

Under the provisions of chapter 249 of the Acts of 1897, a hearing will be given on said petition in the selectmen's room, Monday, July 14, 1902, at 8 o'clock p. m.

make the leading men in active life. And this same is true the world over. So if there are those boys and girls in Arlington who at the closing of the public schools fall below the required 75 percent, let them remember that the world will little note the rank given them in school, while it will note and put to their credit what they can do in their respective departments of life. Our public schools are fast verifying the Scriptural saying that "the first shall be last, and the last shall be first."

In looking over the New York Fireman the other day, a paper published in New York City, we read a generous paragraph concerning the part the Eureka took in the recent firemen's muster at Charlestown. The paragraph to which we refer was justly complimentary to the Eureka and her gallant "boys." The Eureka is in every way up to date and never did she show to better advantage than she did at the firemen's muster on the 17th of June. She came out fifth among the 26 best fire engines in New England. The truth is the Eureka is not easily distanced, and her "boys" just know how to work her for all she's worth.

ARLINGTON LOCALS.

Last Saturday's play for the cup of the Arlington Golf club resulted in the award of three points each to A. C. Hill and G. O. Russell, two to G. M. Brooks and one to C. H. Hardy. The first team defeated Winthrop first by a score of 11 to 2. Woods, Hill, Brooks, Gray and Cushman played for Arlington and McLaughlin, Davison, Bloomfield, Munroe and Default for Winthrop. In the play-off of the tie between Miss Hill and Miss Teel for first place in the woman's bogey match play competition of June 17 Miss Hill won 3 up and 2 to play.

The automobile in process of construction by Wetherbee Bros. has been undergoing what may be called the builder's trial this week. Tuesday the engine was set going and a general limbering up and smoothing off of the working parts was carried on for some time.

It is not needful to turn vegetarian because of the high prices of meat. M. F. Emery, the new proprietor of the Arlington Sea Food market, carries only the best of stock at right rates. His market is neat and his customers are served promptly.

Henry A. Bellamy of Arlington, contractor and builder, whose advertisement is found in the column of the Enterprise, is well known in his profession. He at present has the contract for the new stone Baptist church in Arlington, also a 36-room apartment house on Magazine street, Cambridge, for Mr. Barnard. He has on hand many smaller contracts besides.

Mrs. H. W. Bullard and children will go to their summer home at the foot of Black mountain early next week.

Mrs. David Clark of Mill street, who is in the eye and ear infirmary, Boston, had a cataract successfully removed from her left eye last Saturday. Her friends will be glad to learn that she is likely to recover her sight.

Waldo R. Cutler of 151 Summer street, fell from a cherry-tree last Saturday and broke his right hip. Under the physician's care Mr. Cutler is doing well.

Richard Tyner and family, who for the past 30 years have summered at Marblehead Neck, will start Monday for Poland, Me., where they are to remain for several weeks. During Mr. Tyner's absence his son, George Tyner, will have charge of his carriage business.

The Veteran Firemen's association took an active part in the Winthrop muster yesterday, and then on its way home joined in the Somerville muster. The Eureka is not only "in it," but "she is it."

At their meeting last evening the Eureka boys voted to appoint a committee of five to make arrangements for the league muster which is to take place in Lowell the 31st of this month. They also voted on the receipt of 50 signatures to attend the muster at Nantasket the 19th of July. A committee of two was appointed to wait upon Waldo R. Cutler and to express to him the sympathy of the association in the accident which has befallen him.

William P. Shaw and brother were never as busy as now in their line of work. Their screens are a bar to the festive mosquito and their house decorations are up to date.

The list of assessed polls for 1902 has been issued this week. It makes a book of 43 pages, against 33 pages last year. There are about 80 more names this year than last.

Arlington A. A. was defeated 5 to 1 by Dorchester last Saturday at Dorchester Lower Mills. Dorchester bunched hits in the second inning and scored three runs. The attendance was 2700.

Manager Dyer of the Arlington News Agency has been sending up a fire balloon each evening this week to the great delight of the small boy.

Jack Collins has been drinking his prize Moxie, for he it was who found the balloon Tuesday evening.

Larry Grush, who acted as pallbearer at the funeral of Miss Josie E. LeBaron, was shortly to have married her whom he assisted in laying at rest.

Lloyd Bickley of Jason street left Arlington last Friday, going to Orris Island, Me., where he joined the other members of his family, who were already located there.

Rev. S. H. Hilliard, secretary of the Church Temperance society, will preach at St. John's church tomorrow morning and administer the sacrament of the Lord's supper.

The last of the dances at the Golf club will come off this evening. Music by Custer's orchestra.

Last week Friday's Boston Herald had excellent pictures of Marion Churchill, A. H. S., '02, class president, and Raymond Grover, who wrote the prophesy, in connection with their report of the graduation exercises.

Mrs. Elwell of Pelham terrace is in New Hampshire for a few weeks.

Most of the local stores were closed all day yesterday.

Benjamin H. Norton and family of Academy street left Arlington Monday for a two or three weeks' stay at Lake Winnipisaukee, N. H.

The barber shop which was opened at 714 Massachusetts avenue some weeks ago closed up the end of last week.

The Centre railroad station and grounds are looking exceptionally well. The new coat of paint has greatly improved the appearance of the buildings and the hard work of Agent Morrow on his flower beds is beginning to show. His garden bids fair to surpass even his former successful efforts and it looks as if Arlington were again in line for a first prize.

The E. F. Spauldings of Addison street went to Maine this week for the summer months.

The annual lawn party in aid of the Holy Ghost Hospital for incurables will be held next Saturday on the hospital grounds on Cambridge street, opposite Dana, Cambridge. There will be special features for children in the afternoon and dancing and fireworks in the evening. The Arlington table will be in charge of Miss Julia O'Brien and she will be ably assisted by members of the Arlington branch of the Hospital Aid society, of which John A. Bishop is president. This branch is planning some special features. During the past year four patients from Arlington have been treated at the hospital.

The P. H. Fosters left Thursday for the Maine lakes, where they will occupy a camp.

Attention is called to new location of boxes in the fire alarm system. Box 31 is situated at Kensington park, box 162 on Massachusetts avenue between Palmer and Wyman streets, box 56 on Appleton street near Oakland avenue, box 71 on Massachusetts avenue near Hibbert street, box 512 at the Boston Elevated car house, and box 16 on Massachusetts avenue moved from its old location to new one opposite Tufts street.

The police department Wednesday decorated the grave of Officer Cody, who lost his life July 2, 1901, while bravely performing his duty as a member of the department.

C. 43 attended the exemplification last Monday at Lowell of the B. F. Butler crops 75. The affair was held in the Memorial hall and was largely attended.

The Veteran Firemen's association took special cars for the Winthrop play-out yesterday morning.

Died, Friday, June 27, Josie Emily LeBaron, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph LeBaron, aged 26 years.

A boy arrived Wednesday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. William T. Jackson, 927 Massachusetts avenue. He will be named George Russell Jackson, after his grandfather, the humorist.

The Arlington clerks have been challenged by the Boston newsboys to play an exhibition game at a picnic at Revere. The challenge has not been accepted.

The fire alarm system has recently been improved by the addition of an ingenious switchboard in hose house No. 3. It is possible by this device to ring any alarm in town from Hose 2, so that wherever there is telephone service Hose 3 can be called up and the alarm rung from there much quicker than could possibly be done by running to the box.

O'Neill-Sullivan.
Charlotte Agnes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Sullivan of Charlestown, was married to Peter Francis O'Neill of Arlington last week Wednesday. The ceremony took place at the parochial residence of St. Francis de Sales church and was performed by Rev. John Driscoll. Miss Alice L. Sullivan, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid and E. J. Purcell was best man. Many beautiful presents, cut glass, silver and china, graced the occasion. After the wedding trip the couple will live at 1304 Broadway, West Somerville.

A. B. C. NOTES.

Randolph was defeated on Lawrence field last Saturday by the boat club team. It was Cook's first game with the club, and the Exeter pitcher, made a fine showing. The game, however, was loosely played by both sides, and resulted in 12 to 7 in favor of Arlington. Boston college, which was to have played in place of Randolph, was unable to be present.

Yesterday the second game of the season between boat club and the athletic association was played.

This afternoon's game will be with the Wellingtons.

The ping pong tournament begun last week is well under way. Three prizes are offered, of which the third will be contested for by the losers in the semi-finals.

Ed. Lloyd rowed in the novice race on the Charles river yesterday in the New England regatta.

Lloyd and Johnson rowed again yesterday at 10 o'clock the race which was declared "no race" June 17. Harry Marden and Herbert Cook also rowed a novice race.

Thursday night the club house was open with orchestra music.

Last night fireworks were in order, beginning at 8 o'clock.

Tremont Theatre.

They are boasting of a record-breaking engagement for "The Prince of Felsen" at the Tremont theatre. This uncommonly popular musical comedy is now in its seventh week, and the attendance thus far has been simply a question of the capacity of the theatre. The surprisingly successful engagement of "King Dodo," under the same auspices, covered the same period at the Tremont, but despite the fact that the merry old moraruch came in the height of the season, the box office proudly exhibits heavier receipts for "The Prince of Felsen." The delightful musical creation now occupies the summer field in Boston quite alone, and that it will reign throughout the warm season seems a foregone conclusion. Manager Savage has made many changes in the cast since the opening night, and now the organization stands at about the perfection point in every department. The big chorus has gradually developed into a beauty show of unrivaled radiance, and, happily, its vocal excellence has been enhanced by the change. The Countess Jeneppe has made a conspicuous hit, and scores as much on her merits as a violinist as by reason of her surpassing charms of person.

In a recent communication to the British Institution of Electrical Engineers, Mr. Leonard Joseph reported the following unusual occurrence: During a thunder storm a wild goose was seen to fall to the ground, apparently directly out of the storm clouds. After the storm was over an examination revealed the body of another goose at some distance from the first. The only wounds found upon the birds were a narrow cut on the back of the neck of one and a small puncture at the point where the neck joins the body on the other. At these points the feathers were slightly singed. Both birds proved perfectly fit for the table.

The Lexington flower mission, which distributes flowers in the North End of Boston, will begin its work next Friday. Flowers are to be left at the Lexington station Friday mornings before half past eight. It is earnestly hoped by those having the matter in charge that all will take an interest in sending flowers that there may be more than during previous years. It has been proven a worthy charity, even stemless flowers being kept to scatter among the children while the bouquets are being distributed.

VACATION KNOWLEDGE.

Did you ever notice that good laun-dresses are "scarce than hens' teeth" at most summer resorts? Without having the least intention of stealing the trade, it is a very useful bit of vacation knowledge to be able in a pinch to "do up" your own fine handkerchiefs, for which you have far more respect than has any wash-woman. As soon as two or three look mussy, wash them in a little water (adjective superfluous) with a few drops of ammonia added, squeeze out, and "iron" by spreading each one evenly and carefully against a pane of glass in your window; a sunny one is best, of course, but a mirror has been known to do valiant service. The wet handkerchief adheres to the glass, and if put on without wrinkles will fall off when dry in a state that will make you feel competent to set up a laundry.—

Supreme Court Sustains the Foot-Ease Trade-Mark.

Justice Laughlin, in Supreme Court, Buffalo, has just ordered a permanent injunction, with costs, and a full accounting of sales, to issue against the manufacturer of foot powder called "Dr. Clark's Foot Powder," and also against a retail dealer, restraining from making or selling the same, which is declared, in the decision of the Court, an imitation and infringement of "Foot-Ease," the powder to shake into your shoes. Allen S. Olmsted, of Le Roy, N. Y., is the owner of the trade-mark "Foot-Ease." The decision in this case upholds his trade-mark and renders all parties liable who fraudulently attempt to place upon the market a spurious and similar appearing preparation, labeled and put up in envelopes and boxes like Foot-Ease.

VALUE OF MANUAL TRAINING.

Facts Which Prove the Usefulness of This Kind of Education.

A report recently made by Dr. Henry H. Belfield, director of the Chicago manual training school is of great interest. This institution was the first of independent manual training schools in this country and since its foundation in 1883 it has graduated 741 youths out of a total membership of about 2000.

According to Dr. Belfield, out of the total number of graduates one-half have gone to college, nine-tenths of them to take technical courses. The other half have gone to work at an average age of 18, commanding from $6 to $18 a week in architects' offices and machine shops. It may be taken for granted that very few go into trade, as their training has been wholly technical and mechanical. The record made by these 741 graduates is interesting. There are 73 in schools of technology, 53 in schools of literature, 10 in schools of law and 7 in schools of medicine. Seven are designers in manufacturing establishments, 22 are foremen, 43 are draughtsmen, 1 are machinists, 18 are electricians and 11 are chemists. There are 88 mechanical, civil or electrical engineers and 61 superintendents and managers, 20 teachers, 21 lawyers and 6 physicians. Working as architects or in architects' offices, there are 14; as clerks, bookkeepers and salesmen, 119, and in miscellaneous work, 44. The other 113 of the graduates are either dead or unaccounted for.

Dr. Belfield has observed that of those graduates which have taken technical courses in colleges the greater number have gone into electrical engineering, with mechanical, civil and architectural engineering following in order. A vast majority of those who have become lawyers make a specialty of patent law, for which their training has especially fitted them. The records of those students who failed to graduate are not given, but from the record made by those that did, it is easy to believe that such remained long enough to gain a permanent impression have done correspondingly as well. Chicago's is only one of several great schools of its kind, and the work done there has doubtless been done elsewhere. Such a record as this should relieve the most doubting mind concerning the usefulness of this kind of education.

Tripoli's Petrified Forest.

The great desert in the forbidden hinterland of Tripoli, northern Africa, which has not been visited by Europeans for 50 years, has now been explored by Mr. Edward Dodson, a young Englishman, who went out last March. The members of the expedition experienced much difficulty with the authorities. At one place they were put under arrest and on two occasions threatened by Arabs, who prepared to ambush them. One of the most notable things on the journey to Murzuk was the great petrified forest. For ten days they traveled across an area of petrified trees varying in circumference from seven feet to a few inches. Every branch of this forest was of course lying prone, and this, together with the presence of marine shells, showed that this part of the great Sahara had at one time been submerged.

One night they were surrounded by thunder storms. No less than five distinct storms were in progress all around, and the guns and spears of the party became surrounded by a halo of phosphorescent light, which greatly alarmed the superstitious attendants, who regarded this as a fourth judgment upon them for traveling with "unbelievers."—London Mail.

The Loss of Two Evils.

"No," said Willie Washington, "I am not going to protest against any methods of taxation. What's the use?" "Well," answered Miss Cayenn, "perhaps you are right. You would rather let them tax our property than tax your mind."—Washington Star.

Show What You Can Do.

Beginning September 22d, a genuine, old-time Mechanics Fair will be held in Boston. This will be the first time in four years that the Fair has been held. The great popularity of this exhibition is well known. No charge is made to exhibitors for space. The utmost effort will be made this year to make the Fair attractive. We advise all interested in the arts, science, agriculture, etc., to avail themselves of this opportunity to exhibit their work or products. Application for space and further particulars should be addressed to J. C. Hooper, Manager Mechanics Building, Boston, Mass.

Inasmuch as the Mechanics Fair is an old New England institution, would it not be a good plan to give it liberal support by exhibiting at that time any products coming from this section of the State? Such an effort will surely be of advantage to this locality as well as to the exhibitors themselves.

A CATHEDRAL CITY.

Goulburn, in New South Wales, Holds the Pride of Position.

Each of the Australian States possesses several large cities representing so many dioceses, and having large and beautiful cathedrals, both Anglican and Roman Catholic. Among those in New South Wales, Goulburn may be regarded as holding the pride of position, forming as it does, the busy metropolis of the southern half of the State. It is situated on the main line connecting Brisbane and Sydney with Melbourne and Adelaide, being 134 miles south of Sydney and 574 miles northeast of Melbourne. By many Goulburn has been regarded as a suitable site for the proposed federal capital. It possesses all the cheery surroundings of a large and well-ordered city, the main thoroughfares of which rival the Parisian boulevards in their width, the precision with which they are laid out, and the systematic use of shade trees. The great feature of the city is the Anglican cathedral, which, so far as ecclesiastical adornment goes, puts to shame that in the metropolis. It is one of the finest edifices of its kind in Australia, and portion of a day may well be employed in the inspection of its manifold attractions. It is in the Gothic style, its internal length being 150 feet. The nave and aisles are fifty-four feet in width, the transepts being ninety-six feet in length, and, like the nave and aisles, fifty-four feet in width, the ground plan thus forming a perfect cross.

The walls of the chancel, nave and transepts are adorned with elegant medallions, beautifully carved in stone, representing incidents in the life of Christ. There are also numerous fine stained glass windows, depicting subjects of a biblical character. The pulpit—a gift from Warwickshire—is of Caen stone, from the same quarries that supplied the material for the famous Normandy Cathedral. It is of extremely tasteful design, somewhat like what visitors to churches in continental Europe are familiar, the central figure, within a sunken panel, being of the Saviour, having the prophet Elijah on the right and Moses and Peter on the left. The font—a present from Staffordshire—is in a similar style of art. There is also a handsome brass lectern, and the bishop's throne, the communion table and chairs are of English oak, richly carved. There are numerous tasteful accessories, the whole making the cathedral interior one of the finest examples of ecclesiastical art in Australia. The Roman Catholic Cathedral is another noble structure, and, in addition, Goulburn possesses handsome public and private buildings. Although, with the exception of its cathedral, Goulburn contains little to specially attract the attention of the tourist, it forms an admirable starting point for several interesting localities.

War.

In war, as a general thing, somebody has to be beaten; and as there is always war somewhere, it is woeful to think of the heavy heart, oppressed with defeat, that a good part of the world must be carrying around with it. An immortal work might be written on the history and philosophy of national defeat and humiliation, and the lessons, benefits and vaster victories than those of arms that great peoples have drawn from them. The Boers, like the ner, blend of plucky races that they are, appear already to be organizing their defeat into a moral victory. Who can imagine our South and more Southern, any more completely possessed of itself, than it is now, forty years after its great defeat? If France has fallen behind in Europe, it is not because it was beaten in 1871. No nation was ever more heavily heartened than France after its humiliation, yet all Frenchmen now know that when the country was delivered from the incubus of Bonapartism and from the basest of national vanities, it was helped, not hurt. It is staidier, freer, stronger, for the experience. The Germans themselves were beaten into unity, and therefore into greatness, by Bonaparte. Mexico surpasses all other Latin-American countries in practical sense, largely because it has been twice humbled by conquest. Thus it has been all over the world. Yet here we are of the United States of America, a nation said to be as vain as we are vast, unbeaten as yet, but, according to some of our European friends, needing a sound thrashing badly. We think we are unbeaten. It might be well for us to consider that defeat does not always come from a force beyond our boundaries. We may watch lest it come from within.—Harper's Weekly.

A New Safety Explosive.

According to the Engineering and Mining Journal, an interesting series of tests of a new explosive were made recently at Sands Point, L. I., the summer residence of the inventor, M. F. L. M. Masurite. The new explosive is called "masurite," and is claimed to be absolutely safe from explosion, or fire except when fired by an electrically exploded cap. It was pounded on anvils, thrown into fires, had white hot pokers thrust into masses of it, was placed near dynamite and the latter exploded, and ground to powder between sandpaper and emery, all without disturbing its equilibrium in the least. But when the cartridges were properly capped and detonated they exploded with a force equivalent to about fifty per cent. that of dynamite. One of the remarkable features of the test was the entire absence of flame at the time of the explosion. For this reason it is claimed that masurite can be used with perfect safety in the most gaseous coal mines. Nothing is said regarding the composition of the new powder.

Big Truck; Little Load.

An auto truck capable of carrying at least 30 tons rumbled out of Broadway and into Spring street, and all there was in it was a single sewing machine movement without its table. Among those who observed its burden and smiled was an old citizen, who commented upon the extravagant waste of energy.

"There is power enough there to run 3000 sewing machines, and a boy could easily carry that one. It reminds me of the old story about A. T. Stewart sending two men with a two-truck to deliver one little spool of cotton as a fine implied rebuke to a wealthy customer who asked to have the spool sent home and charged to her account."—New York Sun.

POOL.

There is no more exhilarating pastime to the man who uses his brain excessively than that of pool playing. It furnishes a radical change from the routine of constant thinking in regular channels for it brings into use a diversity of thoughts entirely foreign thereto and therefore recreative in character. Besides, it affords much wholesome physical exercise otherwise. Our pool-room at No. 491 Mass. Ave., Arlington, is a retreat for those who would, for a brief time, drive dull care away. It is kept in the most orderly manner and we solicit the patronage of gentlemen. We have no room for idlers or loungers of a social class who can't mingle with gentlemen.

"THE FULL DINNER PAIL."

No question could be more pertinent today than the one "What of the full dinner pail?" The war cry of less than two years ago has become stilled. From north to south, from east to west, it swept the country over, the biggest delusion of the closing years of the last century. What does it profit the American laborer that he receives 30 percent higher wages than his European brother, when he must pay more for food and lodging in the same proportion? The fallacy of "higher wages" cannot much longer be expected to blind the mass of voters for the dinner pail is a barometer where readings are unmistakable. The low pressure produced by rising prices cannot but become apparent in a lower reading of this economic indicator whose sensitiveness is measured by that of the human stomach.

The signs of the brewing storm are equally apparent to any who may stop to consider the present disturbances in the labor world. Not alone are they read in the outbursts of strikes and violence, but in the growing disquiet and discontent of even the best disposed among the masses with that order of things which permits individuals to control the necessities of life to the end of self-aggrandizement.

The "full dinner pail" slogan of the Republicans was a mistake, and it must have been felt to be so by many in the Republican ranks, however catchy the phrase. It would have been equally a mistake had the pail been kept full, instead of being so soon topped off with emptiness, for it was a direct appeal to the merely materialistic.

That "man cannot live by bread alone" is as true of the humblest as it is of the most cultured. The empty dinner pails and the empty coal bins of today are weather breeders.

"PAY AS YOU GO."

Why not? The indebtedness must be paid sooner or later, and will be so paid if you are an honest man. The credit system is not only a hindrance, but a good deal destructive to all business enterprises. This long waiting for the dollar after it has been earned has driven many a man to the wall. "Cash on delivery" should be the demand of every business house. There is no satisfaction in being compelled to ask for the dollar for which you have rendered an equivalent, and then feeling yourself half compelled to apologize for the asking. The credit system flies in the face of every economic principle. It is a system of temporary robbery. True it is that we do not mean it as such, but none the less it is the taking from another of his available means, that which belongs to him alone. This credit system is in many instances a makeshift for not paying when at the same time the one indebted has the money in his pocket to pay if he would. Many an otherwise truthful man will tell the biggest kind of fib when he comes to pay the debt long overdue. Why mince matters? He simply lies about his inability to pay. And then, what serious inconvenience not only our business men suffer, but a whole army of business men suffer through the failure of even one individual promptly to pay what he owes. Now come to multiply this one individual by an indefinite number, their failures and bankruptcies are the logical outcome. Pay as you go—why shouldn't you? You have had the goods, so that their equivalent belongs to the merchant of whom you made the purchase. "He that dies pays all debts" should no longer stand so singularly apart by itself, let it read "the living pays all debts and pays them promptly."

We have a thorough dislike for the man who agrees with everybody. We well remember a wishy-washy professor in college who would frequently say to the student giving answer to his queries, "Yes, yes, that is true, and the opposite is also true."

That young lady who is not ashamed to be seen with her sleeves rolled up helping her mother wash the dishes will give the lie every time to the declaration that "marriage is a failure."

Either the newspaper will lead and instruct the people, or the people will lead and instruct the newspaper. Which shall it be?

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS.

Hill—Dwelle.

The most delightful event of the season occurred Wednesday night when Miss Dora Louise Dwelle and George W. Hill were united in marriage. The ceremony with the double ring, was performed by Rev. Hiram Pinkham of Watertown, uncle of the bride, in the Park Avenue church, and took place at 8 o'clock. Miss Swadkins, the organist for the occasion, played the wedding march from Lohengrin as the bridal party entered and passed up to the altar. First came the four matrons of honor, Mrs. Catherine B. Clark of Southbridge, Mrs. Minot Lawrence of Arlington, Mrs. Flossie K. Ross, and Mrs. Brown of Brookline, bringing the ribbons and each wearing her wedding gown with pink sweet peas and pink rosettes in her hair. Following the matrons of honor were four ushers, Oscar Schnetzer, George Daniels of New York, Louis Fairchild of Sunderland and John Cousins of Brookline. Charles and George Dwelle also assisted in the ushering.

The maid of honor, Miss Grace Dwelle, sister of the bride, came next carrying a bouquet of pink roses. She wore pink crepe de chine trimmed with ecru lace. Then came the four bridesmaids, Miss Ratsy of Auburn, Miss Anderson of Cambridge, Miss Pinkham of Watertown and Miss Hill, the groom's sister. These wore white muslin trimmed with pink and carried bouquets of pink carnations tied prettily with baby ribbons. The bride entered last on the arm of her father. Gowned in white satin, lace trimmed, and with a veil she made the most beautiful bride the Heights has seen for many a year. Her bouquet, in keeping with her attire, was of white roses.

At the altar beneath a wedding bell of pink and white roses the bridal party was met by the groom, the best man, Mr. Greene, and the officiating clergyman, and the double ring ceremony was performed. Immediately upon which the two were showered with rose leaves from the bell. The church decorations were most effective, having been carried out under the direction of Miss Grace Dwelle. The bride, upon entering, passed beneath an arch bearing the letter D, and as she went out the initial had been changed to H. The motif of the decorations at the church was a combination of pink and green, banks of massed green being dotted with pink roses and each pew being graced with a bunch of roses and smoke bush. The organ loft was banked with sumach boughs, with its rail bound with pink and white flowers. The house decorations were wholly in white and green, extensive use being made of white carnations. The lawn was hung with Japanese lanterns and there were cosy corners prettily fitted up.

Immediately after the wedding ceremony a reception was held at the house until about 10 o'clock. The bride and groom, Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Dwelle, the bride's parents; Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Hill, parents of the groom; best man and maid of honor received in the parlor, and the bridesmaids in the library where was also a guest book. Refreshments were served to the music of the orchestra. In the upper rooms the presents were displayed, much china, bric-a-brac, silver, and glass, pictures, rugs, etc., set forth in profusion. Some 250 relatives and friends of the couple were present. At a little after 10, the newly married pair, the bride in a becoming traveling gown, drove off in a shower of confetti to start upon their wedding trip. This will be a leisurely and round about journey of two weeks to Chicago. They will make their home at Evans-ton.
